“Being a 100% Australian-owned dairy co-op, we pride ourselves on every cent going back to local Aussie farmers”

Norco started from humble beginnings in 1895 in the foothills of Byron Bay, and now is the largest 100% Australian owned dairy co-op in the nation. Norco are committed to creating a sustainable farming future for Aussie generations to come. Their community of farmers work tirelessly to raise healthy herds that produce the creamiest milk, rich in protein and 13 essential nutrients.

Norco are excited to join CCI as a supplier from February 2025 onwards. Greg said that the priority focus of Norco is to build strong relationships in communities where their farmers live and work: "Being able to align our value of 'live local, work local, support local' with the not for profit community of CCI members is something we are very passionate about."

The support from the not for profit community will in return contribute to the growth of family businesses, facilitating reinvestment, hiring more local staff and contributing to the regional economy: "We pride ourselves on every cent going back to Australian farmers, and are proud to support CCI members."
